

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASHES OVER WEEKEND

Three motor accidents were investigated over the week-end by members of the Gettysburg sub-station of the state police. Three persons were injured as a result of the crashes and charges were brought against two of the drivers involved.

William Richardson, Fairfield R. 1, and Dorothy Wetzel, Emmitsburg, were injured when a car driven by Richardson crashed into a parked vehicle owned by John Philip Snyder, Cape Vincent, N. SUV OBSERVES LINCOLN SPEECH ANNIVERSARY

The part of Lincoln's Gettysburg address that was a "summation of all the high thinking that preceded it" was "this nation, under God," the Rev. Dr. Norman S. Wolf, pastor of the Fairfield Lutheran church, declared Saturday afternoon in an address given at the annual Sons of Union Veterans services commemorating the dedication of the Gettysburg National Cemetery and the delivery here of Lincoln's classic address.

Comparing the remainder of the Gettysburg address to the "mounting of a jewel," the Fairfield pastor held that the four words, "This nation under God" epitomized not only the ideas and philosophy behind the speech but also was a summation of all that Lincoln lived for and believed in.

"He was not using those words as a sentimental flourish, for his speech was not long enough for such a flourish, nor was he using a pious phrase to give a pleasant impression that would please the people, for the speech was too closely thought out to be merely a pleasant speech," Doctor Wolf declared.

Parade To Cemetery
"Lincoln was activated by an understanding and a vision and a determination given him by God to help keep the nation united and Lincoln was giving testimony that his life was grounded and rooted in the help of the everlasting God."

"When Lincoln said 'This nation under God' he knew that in his day, as in ours, it was not to be expected that everyone in the whole nation would ever serve Almighty God. Lincoln knew that such a consummation could not be brought to pass but he knew that the few who are serving God are more valuable to the life of the nation than the millions of sinners."

HOSPITAL GETS FLAGPOLE, FLAG FROM SUV UNITS

The Annie M. Warner hospital was presented with a flag, flagpole and a plaque memorializing members of the local camp of the Sons of Union Veterans who served in World War II Saturday afternoon at services held on the terrace in front of the hospital.

Carl A. Baum, vice president of the board of directors of the hospital, in his speech accepting the marker and flagpole to the institution pointed out that:

"It is fitting that the Sons of Union Veterans and its Women's Auxiliary, dedicated as they are to high ideals of patriotism and service, should present this flag pole and plaque to an institution whose sole purpose is also that of service."

Veterans Raise Flag
"Your gift is therefore a gift to the people of Adams county and in their behalf it is accepted with their thanks and appreciation for the service rendered their country by your members hereby memorialized."

W. Preston Hull presided at the service which opened with "America" by the Gettysburg high school band.

Following the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Norman S. Wolf, pastor of the Fairfield Reformed church, three members of the local camp of the SUV, former Navy Lieutenant Donald P. McPherson, Jr., former Army T/5 Harry S. Oyler and former M/Sgt. John Caskey all dressed in their service uniforms, raised the flag given by the auxiliary on the flagpole presented by the SUV.

Rev. Fox Speaks
The address of the day was made by the Rev. Howard Schley Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church here. Speaking of the flag as a symbol of freedom, the Rev. Mr. Fox pointed out that:

"Freedom, as all things worth while, was purchased at a high price. Those who through the years have faced death to secure and maintain that freedom which our flag symbolized have given us a heritage that is unequalled."

"One cannot help but think upon this occasion of the thousands of lives that were given willingly by those of intense faith who gave and preserved this heritage."

Work Incomplete
"Suppose those who gave us this heritage of freedom had refused to give of all they possessed? If we refuse to live up to this heritage how can we answer both to those of the past and those of the future? Might it not be that God has chosen America, as he once chose the Jews, to lead the world to a dawn of freedom and justice to all?"

Benediction by the Rev. Doctor Wolf and the "Star Spangled Banner" concluded the exercises.

Work in connection with the memorial was not completed in time for Saturday's program. A concrete walk from the present pavement to the flagpole is yet to be completed and a stone column on which the bronze plaque honoring the SUV member who served in World War II is to be placed has yet to be installed. The members of the camp whose names will appear on the plaque include Harry E. Bender, John W. Caskey, John B. Keith, Donald E. S. MacPherson, Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Harry S. Oyler, G. H. Roth, Francis T. Snyder and Clayton D. Warman.

Soft Coal Miners Quitting Ahead Of Lewis Deadline; Defy U.S.; Showdown Near

By NORMAN ALKER

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Defying the prospect of a government crack down on John L. Lewis, thousands of soft coal miners today laid down their tools three days ahead of a deadline set by the United Mine Workers' chief.

As the walkouts spread, President Truman called for a showdown fight with Lewis and Attorney General Tom Clark summoned aides to another emergency session to explore possible court action against the UMW boss. It was the second such conference in as many days.

Mr. Truman was vacationing in Florida but intimates said he had left orders for subordinates in the capital to either smash Lewis' leadership of the miners or bring him to terms on a deal to keep mines going.

Lewis, rejecting a government proposal for a truce, has "terminated" the miners' wage contract effective Wednesday midnight—a signal for a complete shutdown in the mine fields. The government insists the contract still is effective.

In an effort to avert complete paralysis of industry, the government already has taken these steps:

1. Posted notices at all mines appealing to the miners to stick at their jobs, despite Lewis, and pledging to "keep the mines open regardless of any action" by the union boss.

2. "Froze" coal stocks in dealers' hands and instituted rationing of

'Old Oaken Bucket,' Lost Months Ago, To Come Home

The mystery of the disappearance in June of the oaken bucket which was symbolic of victory in the annual gridiron clashes in pre-war days between Dickinson and Gettysburg colleges was solved Saturday night, but the solution created another riddle that is equally baffling.

Missing since June, when it was the only trophy removed from a case in the gymnasium of Gettysburg college by some still unknown person who broke the glass in the case to reach the treasure, the bucket was presented to President William Edel of Dickinson during the Homecoming Day dance Saturday evening in the gym of the Carlisle school.

From Whom He Doesn't Know
Bobby Byrne, leader of the dance band, called the college head to the front of the gym at intermission and during a brief, informal ceremony presented him with a flimsily wrapped box. After removing a lot of old newspapers which were also in the container, the president withdrew the maroon and silver-plated bucket whose whereabouts have been a question mark for five months.

Who gave the bucket to Byrne? The band leader said he wouldn't be able to recognize the person so the identity of the prankish thief remains unknown.

President Edel will return the victory symbol to officials of Gettysburg, which earned its possession by winning every one of the games which were played after the bucket was donated to the schools by two York residents, graduates from both schools.

The bucket, which is about 12 inches high and eight inches in diameter is adorned with a silver plaque on which was etched each year the score of the game.

After the singing of the hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King," there was scripture and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Prantz and a selection by a men's chorus directed by Luther Lady. The audience sang "America, the Beautiful," and the roll call of the departed firemen followed. After the memorial address the firemen's memorial hymn was sung with reveille following the first stanza and taps at the conclusion of the hymn. The service closed with the singing of one stanza of "America" and the triple amen.

The service was arranged by this committee: E. D. Bushman, chairman; Lawrence E. Myers and Reynolds R. Criswell.

REV. DAUGHERTY SPEAKS HERE AT LINCOLN DINNER

Lincoln's Gettysburg address is a challenge to those who seek to make permanent peace today, the Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, Carlisle, pastor of the Grace United Brethren church there and a colonel in the chaplain's corps during World War II, declared Saturday night at the 16th annual banquet of the Past Commanders and Past Presidents Association of the Sons of Union Veterans. The banquet, followed by a dance, was held at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Lincoln's address, "one of the finest pieces of oratory ever spoken, provides us with the solution to our difficulties with peace," the Rev. Mr. Daugherty declared. "Because we did not know what to do with the peace that came after World War I, we had World War II. Now we are again attempting to make a peace that will be permanent. Lincoln's Gettysburg address can show a way to that peace. His statement that 'This nation, under God, should have a new birth of freedom' is as true of today as it was 1863. No peace can be made without God or without freedom."

Gives Lincoln Speech

Mrs. Edna S. Lampert, Trenton, national president of the SUV Auxiliary, termed the annual banquet held in commemoration of the dedication of the cemetery here, "one of the outstanding events in the nation" in a short address.

Charles Crossley, Harrisburg, delivered Lincoln's Gettysburg address while Col. C. Leroy Stoudt, Reading, department commander of the Sons of Union Veterans Reserve, was toastmaster. A total of 148 officers from south central Pennsylvania and a number of national and state officers attended the dinner. Sheely's orchestra of New Oxford provided the music for the dance.

Among state and national officers present were: George Moore, York, Pennsylvania Department commander of the Sons of Union Veterans; Miss Elizabeth Ritter, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania department president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Grace Henniger, Williamsport, department president of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic; Mrs. Annamae Berthor, Reading, Pennsylvania department president, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

ROSENSTEEL'S BACK IS BROKEN

Joseph L. Rosensteel, National Museum, who was injured when a pick-up truck in which he was riding went off the Hanover-Abbottstown road early Friday morning, is suffering from a fracture of the fifth dorsal vertebra near the joint, the family learned today.

Rosensteel was taken to the Hanover hospital shortly after the accident and is to remain there about six weeks. In addition to the fractured vertebra and scapula, he also suffered some direct injuries to the chest and possibly suffered the fracture of one or more ribs.

Two men who were following Rosensteel's pick-up truck at the time of the accident reported to hospital officials at Hanover on the accident Sunday.

They said that a car bearing a searchlight on its top and traveling toward Rosensteel and themselves came down the center of the highway at high speed. Rosensteel swung off the road in order to avoid an accident and then, when he attempted to come back on the road the steering gear of the pick-up truck locked, the witnesses said, and the truck continued on a bias across the road. The locked front wheels, they said, dug into the dirt of the berm on the other side of the road, and swung the vehicle into another tree.

Bullet Eleven Gains Easy 34-0 Victory Over Albright For Third Win Of Season

An air-minded and alert Gettysburg college football team brought an abrupt end to its four-game losing streak Saturday afternoon by smothering Albright 34-0 in a contest at Reading.

The victory marked the third of the year for the Bullets against five setbacks.

Lebanon Valley remains on the Bullet schedule and will be met here on Thanksgiving Day afternoon.

Three Gettysburg touchdowns against the Lions were the result of aerial tosses, another came on an interception of a pass while the final touchdown followed an interception. Throughout the afternoon Coach Bream's lads intercepted no less than five passes and recovered four fumbles. First downs were 11 to 9 in favor of Gettysburg.

Tally Early
The contest was scarcely three minutes old when the Bullets tallied. Gaining possession of the ball deep in Albright territory following a poor quick kick on the part of the Lions, the Bullets tallied when Cauffman grabbed a 25-yard pass from Wileman and scampered 13 yards for a score. Cervino place-kicked the first of his four straight extra points.

In the second period the Bullets recovered an Albright fumble on the Lions' 47. Kreider then whipped a flat pass to Cauffman from the 15 and the latter raced over. However, the play was called back and the Bullets penalized five yards for being off-sides. The Bream-men came right back with an identical play and this time a six-pointer resulted.

Three Quick Scores
Three Bullet touchdowns came with lightning-like rapidity in the third period. Albright received the opening second half kickoff and on the first play Morris, guard, intercepted Gugli's pass and raced 13 yards into touchdown territory. Gugli was hurried on the pass by the hard-charging Bullet line and the ball was deflected to Morris.

Less than two minutes later Kreider heaved a pass to Wileman and the latter streaked 50 yards for the fourth Orange and Blue score. Later in the same round Wileman snatched a Lion pass on the 31 and a few plays later Cervino went through tackle from the 46-yard line. Albright's line broke through to block Cervino's extra point try.

With the exception of Dick Constable, back, who is nursing a minor injury, every Bullet player making the trip broke into the lineup. Coach Bream used 28 players.

BULLETTES IN 6-2 UPSET AT MILLERSVILLE

Playing its final game of the fall hockey season, the Gettysburg college coed team suffered its second defeat at the hands of a strong Millersville State Teachers' eleven Saturday morning at the Millersville field by a 6-2 count.

Millersville lunged ahead the first minute of play when Sue Kirshner, speedy left inner, tallied for her school. Three minutes before the end of the first period, she pulled a repeat performance to give the Yellow and Green a two-point lead at the half.

In the second period, Lewis replaced Ward at center half, and Schure took over the right wing position for Millersville. Without allowing too much time to pass, Kirshner once more scored and the teachers led 3-0. Her tally was immediately followed by a fast Gettysburg drive from the stick of right wing Mary Lou Lehman to gain a point for the Orange and Blue.

Millersville's strength returned as Flinchbaugh, center forward, raised the count to four and Kirshner boosted it another to put the game on ice for the home team.

With five minutes left in the game, Gettysburg's left inner, Jean Fetter, dodged her opponent and pushed one into the goal to chalk up another for the local Brewsterites, and to make the final count, 6-2.

The Millersville field was quite small in comparison with the local grounds. The Bulletttes struggled during the first half to adjust themselves to the locality and the slippery, dewey grass. Nancy Dreier as goalie starred particularly for the Gettysburg coeds, receiving excellent support from full backs Mary Louise Kunde and Marcia Maguire.

Sue Kirshner, Millersville's outstanding inner, is legally not a Millersville student, but one of the Penn State surplus which have moved into the state teachers colleges. Although just a freshman, she was the biggest threat on the green and yellow team. Her five goals did not help the Gettysburg cause. A physical education major, she comes from Havertown, Pa., where she starred on her high school varsity.

Hershey Leads Eastern Division

(By The Associated Press)
The Hershey Bears lead the American Hockey league's eastern division by five points today while the Pittsburgh Hornets and the Cleveland Barons are tied for the western division top rung with the Indianapolis Capitals only a point behind them.

Hershey picked up four points over the last week-end by blanking the runner-up New Haven Ramblers, 3-0 Saturday and trimming the Providence Reds 4-1 last night.

Pittsburgh also racked up four points by noosing out the St. Louis Flyers, 6-5 Saturday and downing the Buffalo Bisons, 4-2 yesterday. Cleveland missed an opportunity to go out in front by bowing 7-4 to the Flyers last night after beating Buffalo, 6-3 Saturday.

The Caps also blew a chance to hold onto the lead by playing the Springfield Indians to a 2-2 tie Saturday and dropping an 8-4 game to the Ramblers yesterday.

The Philadelphia Rockets, who played Providence to a 4-4 tie Saturday were idle along with Springfield yesterday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Carnegie Tech is reviving its Steffen memorial scholarship fund to give deserving football players a break. New York U. students are agitating for more convenient classroom schedules and other aids for athletes. Oklahoma City U. campaigned for more dough for football with rather gratifying results and now Iowa State college comes up with a student "club" with the aim of improving its athletic stature.

The whole situation becomes slightly confusing when conference leaders, athletic directors and faculties are making strenuous efforts to control commercialism and give the ordinary students a chance on the teams and those same students start a movement calling for a member of the athletic staff to supervise scouting trips, for a scholarship fund "to be awarded for outstanding achievement in athletics" and similar features. Wonder what's the next move?

UNDER AND OVER
Jim Houghton, Villanova publicist, tells one of the season's saddest tales concerning that 109-yard run Bob Polidor made against the U. of Miami. . . . Seems one spectator was slightly affected by firewater and right behind him a girl, bothered by slightly less fiery warmth, sat with her coat on her lap. . . . When Polidor started from the end zone, the gal jumped up excitedly. Her coat landed on the head of the previously mentioned gent. . . . It was a great fight, Ma, and the fellow finally battled his way out from under the coat just after Polidor crossed the goal line.

ONLY IF HE LOSES
After C. M. Saunders, the Toledo horseman, had paid $21,000 for Egan Hanover at the recent Harrisburg, Pa., harness horse sales, he proudly escorted Mrs. Saunders to the colt's stall to show off his purchase. . . . As they stood there, an expensively clad woman glanced into the stall and remarked in shrill tones: "Paying $21,000 for a horse. I'll bet his wife will shoot him."

MOUNTAINEERS DROP 2ND TILT TO BAINBRIDGE
The Bainbridge football team defeated Mount St. Mary's College, of Emmitsburg, 25-0, at Bainbridge, Md., Saturday, for its second victory of the year over the losers, having beaten the same team, 26-0, earlier in the season.

Bainbridge got off to a good start in the first period, scoring twice on touchdowns by Bacon and Jones, and a conversion by Deem, making the score 13-0. The first touchdown was scored on a 7-yard pass from Deem and the second on an off-tackle play, good for four yards.

Mount St. Mary's buckled down in the second and third periods and held the winners scoreless. But in the final period, Fitzpatrick broke loose on a 12-yard run through centers for the third touchdown. The try-for-point failed.

Deem scored the victors' final touchdown on a buck through center to run the score to 25 to 0 and the conversion failed.

Bainbridge was penalized heavily throughout the game, drawing 95 yards for infractions, mostly for offside offenses. During the first game play the losers, Bainbridge had been penalized 150 yards.

FOOTBALL TO REACH CLIMAX THIS WEEK-END

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Like a well-staged mystery play which saves its climax for the final act, a college football season that has kept everybody guessing since early September will reach a dramatic peak this week-end with most of the puzzles being solved on the same afternoon.

The Big Nine and Pacific coast conferences will crown their champions before Saturday's sun goes down and by that time the officials of the two leagues probably will have decided whether to match the winners in the Rose Bowl or clear a path to Pasadena for Army's unbeaten team.

Title races in various other conferences also are likely to be cleared up and performances this week will go a long way toward determining which teams will appear in the remaining bowl games on New Year's Day.

Army Gets Rest
Army, which followed its scoreless tie with Notre Dame by clipping Pennsylvania, 34-7, rests this week for its Nov. 30 finale with Navy. The Cadets are itching for a Rose Bowl bid and, what's more important, academy officials appear willing to accept one this time if it comes.

But the Big Nine has voted to send its champ to the Rose Bowl and the Pacific coast loop, now faced with the biggest assortment of choices in the history of the post-season classic, must decide who gets the nod.

The host team for the Rose Bowl will emerge from Saturday's important struggle between Southern California and UCLA. All-victorious UCLA, which swamped Montana, 61-7, for its eighth straight win, can grab both the Pacific coast title and the Pasadena Plum by beating the Trojans.

A victory for Southern Cal in this last conference outing for both clubs would give each a share of the title, however, and hand the conference the added headache of selecting one of them for the Rose Bowl.

Can Win Title
Illinois, which blasted Ohio State's title hopes Saturday, 16-7, can wrap up the Big Nine flag this week at Northwestern, whose 27-0 licking by Notre Dame kept the Irish abreast of Army in the race for the mythical National championship.

Michigan stayed in the running by knocking off Wisconsin, 28-6, and if Illinois should falter the Wolverines could take the title by winning this week at Ohio State. The remainder of the Big Nine windup will find Minnesota, 16-6 conqueror of Iowa, at Wisconsin and Indiana at Purdue.

Harvard, which blanked Brown, 28-0, and Yale, 30-2 victor over Princeton, will try to settle the Ivy league race Saturday at Cambridge. With three league wins and no defeats against Yale's record of three victories, one loss and a tie, Harvard could win the title by taking the Bulldogs.

Cornell remained in the running by beating Dartmouth, 21-7, for its third league triumph against one tie, however, and a Yale victory over Harvard would leave the issue in doubt until Cornell's Thanksgiving date with Pennsylvania.

Syracuse, upset by Colgate, 25-7, invades Columbia, which trounced Lafayette, 46-0; Alabama, 12-7 winner over Vanderbilt, goes to Boston college, which lost to Tennessee, 33-13, and Penn State, 12-7 conqueror of Navy, will be at Pittsburgh.

In other eastern headquarters, Muhlenberg will be at Delaware for a sort of little world series between two of the smaller all-victorious schools, Bucknell at Rutgers, Holy Cross at Temple and Georgetown at NYU.

5 Persons Arrested In Football Riot
Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Five persons were under arrest today following a riot at a sandlot football game.

Police overpowered Charles Lockhart, 18, who they said brandished a revolver during the melee. He was charged with violation of the fire-arms act.

According to detectives, the riot started when one team made a touchdown and a seaman, 29-year-old John Woods, began to jump in excitement.

As he did, he knocked an umbrella from the hands of Patsy De Siano, 34. An argument between the men ended in fist fighting which spread throughout the 1,000 spectators.

De Siano was treated for a cut over the eye.

The Gettysburg Moose bowling team swept three games from the Chambersburg Moose mere Sunday afternoon in the opening match of the season for the local team.

Archie Maust rolled 227 in the opening game to be the high man for the match.

Next Sunday the Gettysburg team will meet Waynesboro on the local alleys. Waynesboro is leading the South Penn Moose league. Gettysburg is not a member of the league.

PHILLY WAITS ANOTHER YEAR FOR CHAMPION

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Quaker City sports fans, who've been waiting for a major sport champion for 15 years, settled back today into the "wait 'till next year" routine after their college hope, Penn Professional challenger, the Eagles, skidded out of title contention.

This might have been the year for the champion-starved Philadelphians, for Penn was rated as having perhaps its finest football team and the Eagles were considered a good bet to win the National Football league title.

But over the week-end Penn not only lost but was outclassed by Army, 34-7, and the Eagles bowed out to the Pittsburgh Steelers, 10-7.

Couldn't Win
Penn's coach, George Munger, who quipped as Glenn Davis turned in one of his greatest performances for Army, had this to say:

"When Princeton beat us, 17-14, I really felt sick. I could think of so many things that would have changed the entire complexion of the game.

"Today I feel no different from usual. Oh, I'm disappointed, of course; bitterly disappointed. I thought, after the first quarter, we really had a chance to beat the Army. Now I know better. If we had the game to play all over again, I know of no changes we might make to reverse the score."

Earle J. (Greasy) Neale, the Eagle mentor, had nothing to say. Just as there was too much Davis for Penn, so was there too much Bill Dudley for the Eagles.

Davis scored two touchdowns, passed for one and lateraled for another against Penn. Dudley intercepted a pass to set up the Steeler's touchdown and then booted a game-winning field goal with less than a minute to go.

The Eagles still possess a mathematical chance for the NFL title. But winning would require a lot of assistance from the other teams.

The baseball Athletics last won a major Philadelphia team title by copping the American league pennant in 1931.

In basketball, Philadelphia has fared somewhat better. Temple university laid claim to the Naional title in 1937. Penn won the Ivy league championship in 1944.

CANNERS DROP 8TH STRAIGHT BY 41-0 SCORE

Biglerville high school's hapless football team dropped its eighth successive game Saturday afternoon to Susquehanna Township 41-0 on the latter field at Progress.

The Cannners were outplayed the whole way and there was never any doubt as to the outcome after Susquehanna tallied a trio of touchdowns in the opening period.

Biglerville will close its season next Saturday afternoon by meeting Camp Hill at Biglerville.

MULES MAY GET BID TO MIAMI

(By The Associated Press)
With a supposedly mighty Pennsylvania team nosediving from the Keystone State football pinnacle, Muhlenberg and Penn State by turning in convincing victories hoped into the leading spot in state collegiate football circles over the week-end.

The Mules, warming up for their all-important game Saturday against Delaware, thumped Moravian 47-0 with speedy Jack Crider leading the way scoring three touchdowns.

Both Muhlenberg and Penn State, who trounced Navy 12-7, were being mentioned as possible bowl candidates with rumors rife that the Mules might go to Miami for the Orange Bowl and Penn State to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl should the teams win their remaining games.

Penn ran up against a California comet named Glenn Davis and came out on the short end of 34-7 score. Meanwhile, Mansfield Teachers were completing an unbeaten season—marred only by a tie with Bloomsburg—edging strong Lock Haven Teachers by an extra point, 14-13.

Temple Beats Bucknell
California Teachers rolled to their eighth straight without a setback, halting Fairmont (W.Va.) Teachers by a 20 to 0 score.

Villanova ended a good season by slipping past Florida, 27-20. Temple came to life to score early and often to defeat Bucknell 27-6.

Westminster played its fourth tie game of the season, ending in a 7-7 deadlock with Grove City. George-

Vaccination: The rapid spread of Small Pox throughout the country, renders vaccination very important. Although we have no cases in Gettysburg, our physicians have been more or less busy for the last week or two vaccinating children and re-vaccinating adults. We notice that in some places vaccination among school children is made compulsory—a condition of being retained in school.

WHY NOT RATION WORRY?

We ought more and more to be a government by ourselves, and, to get off to a good start, what better plan than to ration our worries? And I would suggest that only about five minutes a day be so rationed for their consideration.

We could take a final hour in which to count our blessings, but I would confine all our worries into no longer than five minutes. It seems to me that worry would then soon be outlawed, and no more worries needed. They would leave of their own accord—not being needed! Runer Godden, the English writer, says in her delightful book, "Thus Far and No Further," that the Buddhists in India "put their prayer flags where the wind will blow them, and their prayer wheels in the streams, where the water will turn them, and get on with their work while the prayers are said."

When we put ourselves to a good task, and feel happily engaged in it, then there is no room for any worry. Worry has no appointed abiding place. That's why it tries to sneak in when and where it is least expected, and where it may hope to gain a foothold. Busy people have no empty stools on which worry can perch its lumpy presence.

Worry eats out the life of a mind, or soul, just as termites eat out the life of the wood into which they penetrate—in the dark. You can't see worry at work, any more than you can see the termites, but you soon see the result. Worry leaves scars. It steals years away, too.

But why give worry any foothold at all? It has never helped a single human being. It has harmed endless millions. All of us are sincerely concerned about our work, about those whom we love, and about everything that promises a better world, but worry can give no benefit at any time or place.

So I believe we ought to ration this worry business, giving it the least possible consideration, edging it finally from all our undertakings and thoughts, until it is happily and deservedly dismissed from our lives.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "How About a Hobby?"

LABOR REVOLT IN COMMONS IS NOT 'RED' MOVE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The revolt of the left-wing Laborites in the British House of Commons against their Labor (Socialist) government's foreign policy, which is having an airing today, undoubtedly owes some of its impetus to communistic influence, but we shouldn't make the mistake of thinking that this is a Red rebellion. British Socialism isn't Red. Indeed, the Labor party has banned Communism. There are comparatively few Communists in the British Isles, and there are only two in Commons. However, they're like a handful of yeast in a beer-vat—they cause ferment. In the present instance they are very active, following up the left's cardinal policy of divide-and-rule, that is, causing a split in a party or organization and then profiting by the division.

What the sixty-odd left-wing Socialists profess to fear is that Britain, by paralleling America's foreign policy in many particulars, may become involved in war with Russia. Their supposition is that the capitalist United States is headed for trouble with the Soviet Union. They want John Bull to cut loose from Uncle Sam and, as they put it, proceed along socialistic lines tied neither to American "free enterprise" nor Soviet Communism.

Well, that's a risky venture, because if there should be another conflict (which heaven forbid) then John Bull is going to be in it up to his neck right from the start, and now is the time to decide on which side his bread is buttered. Thus far Prime Minister Attlee has continued to hew steadily to his chosen policy, and it will take more than the present revolt to make him change his mind.

If the left-wingers could insure Britain's neutrality in another major conflict by the expedient of proceeding along lines not tied to the policies of any other great power, then they would indeed have a strong argument for their thesis.

But there isn't a breath of hope that England could escape involvement. If there's another war between any two great powers, the rest will be in it, for it will develop quickly into a global affair.

It's safe to say that, apart from perhaps a very few radical Socialists, the British rebels aren't impelled by love of Communistic Russia. The English Socialist believes in nationalization of industry, but like all other Britons he abhors the idea of totalitarian dictatorship for which the Redism stands. John Bull is a very independent individual.

So, there is no reason for attaching undue significance to the revolt in Commons. It doesn't mean that the Labor party is leaning towards Communism.

Traffic Policeman And Motorist Killed

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—A 32-year-old traffic policeman and a motorist died in general hospital yesterday following a multiple collision in which a Philadelphia-bound bus pinned the victims against a wrecked automobile.

The policeman, father of two, was James Gustave of nearby Plains. The motorist was Andrew Yenchla, 40, also of Plains.

Joseph Peton of Nanticoke, the bus operator, told police he was blinded by headlights of another bus traveling in the opposite direction on the four-lane highway and swerved his vehicle when he saw the traffic policeman standing in his path.

The bus crashed into a concrete wall on the side of the highway, veered off and struck the policeman and Yenchla, who was standing near his car, which had been damaged in a prior accident.

The policeman was directing traffic around the wreckage of Yenchla's car and the automobile of John Galinkas of Inkerman, Pa. Galinkas and four passengers escaped injury.

FALL SOWINGS NEED CAUTION

While all hardy annuals, which survive frosts in the spring, can be sown in the fall without danger of injury by freezing, there are other hazards connected with winter which require that fall sowing be done with caution.

Seeds or seedling plants may drown in locations where water fails to drain off promptly; they may be washed out of the soil by heavy rains, or decay in soil that remains wet too long. Wherever several annuals commonly seen themselves, conditions are likely to be favorable for other varieties. In a garden where no annuals selfseed, it will be prudent to prepare a special bed for fall sowing, with the surface raised several inches to insure good drainage, and surrounded by a wooden curb several inches high, to prevent rains washing over it.

Needs Cool Weather

No. 1 candidate for fall sowing, is the annual larkspur. This is a flower that takes a long time to germinate, and demands cool weather in which to do it. It is so hardy that when it drops seed in a favorable place, its tiny seedlings develop in the fall and live through the most severe winters unharmed. If possible, seed should be sown in the place where the flowers are wanted, since it is seldom practical to transplant this subject.

Shirley poppies, calliopsis candy-tuft, cosmos, the fragrant nicotiana, and all colors of bachelor buttons are as hardy as oaks, and will grow from fall sown seed unless destroyed by one of the special winter hazards which have been mentioned. These also are seldom transplanted. Since they grow without difficulty from spring sown seed, there is not the same need for fall sowing that exists with the annual larkspur, but plants from fall sowing give flowers earlier, and are much more vigorous than those which are started in the greenhouse or hot-bed in the spring, in the attempt to get early flowers.

In Bulb Rows

When bulbs are planted along in beds or borders, hardy annuals may be sown in the same place this fall, to blossom after the bulbs have flowered and their foliage has disappeared. Rows of hardy annuals suitable for cut flowers may be sown in the vegetable plot, after it has been spaded this fall.

In sections where a brief spring cuts short the flowering season of sweet pears, earlier flowers and a longer season can be obtained by fall sowing, taking precautions as suggested against decay in damp soil. By covering the ground with a light mulch of leaves, straw or similar substance, after it has frozen, winter thaws may be prevented, which might otherwise cause injury.

Other annuals which are successfully fall sown include snapdragons, cymoglossum, hardy pinks, California poppy, nigella and petunia.

Avoid Waste Of Fuel Wood

In normal years about 40 per cent of all timber removed from our forests is used as fuel. This means that more and more care is warranted in choosing timber for use in heating and cooking, as supplies dwindle and demands mount for lumber to meet building and other manufacturing needs.

Wood has certain distinct advantages over other forms of fuel which easily keeps it to the front among fuels. It is comparatively clean and free from disagreeable dust; it produces little smoke and soot when properly burned. A cord of hardwood produces only about 60 pounds of ashes as compared with 200 to 300 pounds of ashes from a ton of hard coal. Too, wood ashes are valuable for fertilizing purposes. Then also, in terms of sentimental value wood burning in a fireplace can scarcely be estimated in comparison with coal. There is a wholesome sense of security from a long rick of wood along the garden fence in late fall which is not present in a bin of winter-stored coal.

But these advantages of wood bring like responsibilities. True, when a ton of coal is mined and consumed it is gone and its consumption means one ton less of the world's declining supply. But when a cord of fuel wood is burned the world's supply need not be lowered if farmers take care to plant and protect trees for replacement purposes.

It is never wise or economical to use timber for fuel which can be utilized for building roles, posts and the large number of indispensable articles manufactured from wood. In most farm woodlots there is plenty of suitable timber for fuel which cannot be used for these other purposes—crooked and crowding trees, dead and dying specimens, tops and knotty portions of trunks, and inferior species. Too, mill wastes as well as forest wastes should be used as fuel. Even sawdust can now be pressed into usable fuel bricks.

One cord of the heavier hardwoods equals in heating value a ton of high grade coal or 200 gallons of domestic fuel oil. These include hickory, oak, beech, sweet birch, hard maple, elm, locust and long-leaf pine. But of course, these are the same species which are in greatest demand to meet our national housing needs.

About two cords of the softer woods—poplar, catalpa, cypress, linden, spruce and white pine—are required to equal the heating value of a cord of the named hardwood.

Although no set of rules will apply in every situation, forestry authorities recommend eight general classes of timber to be cut and used for fuel:

1. Tops, large limbs and other logging or cutting wastes.
2. Dead trees, down or standing, sound enough for fuel.
3. Diseased or insect-infested trees or those likely to fall victims to local epidemics and infestations.

40. Hardwoods of bushy form with boles unsuitable for sawlogs.

5. Crooked or broken trees.

6. Trees overtopped or stunted by neighboring trees and unlikely to attain saw-timber size.

7. "Wolf" trees—large crowns and taking up space which should be better utilized by better timber specimens.

8. Species not in demand for lumber, poles, posts, ties, pulpwood, etc., especially if they are interfering with the growth of more valuable trees.

Sydney, (AP)—A two and one-half year old Bengal tiger walked past its keeper and out of its cage at Taronga Park zoo in Sydney today, causing a near panic among zoo visitors before officials shot it dead.

Loudspeakers blared the warning "A tiger is on the loose" and visitors hustled into the seal enclosure and zoo buildings.

Chapter 28

Niel waited for them to come. Franz had taken his personal belongings, he and Franz were dressed identically. But in his inner pocket were Gilda's papers and Werfel's notebook. The time—one minute before 9:30 spotlighted his mind . . . then he was to maneuver toward the side door.

He mused over the details Franz had so quietly related about his father's ill-starred marriage to the beautiful, unfaithful Griseida Westphalen . . . the war and his return in 1918; her death a year later at the twins' birth. Now he wondered why his father returned after the war—after meeting Cindra in London. Knowing what Cindra was to his father it didn't make sense.

Disturbed, he went to the window; the whirling and twisting snow suddenly repelled him. As he turned away Franz and Conrad came in with a tray.

"We'll have a drink together," said Franz cheerfully.

As he poured Niel asked abruptly: "Why did Dad come back here after the war . . . it doesn't make sense!" A swift interchange of looks passed between them.

"No!" said Conrad sharply. But Franz turned to Niel.

"He came back," he said quietly, "because of Conrad." Niel stared: "I don't get it."

"Because Conrad," said Franz unsteadily, "is our elder brother."

Silence . . . snow whirling against the window, that strange sense of his father's presence, Conrad's eyes like blue flames in his white face. Niel felt himself moving forward until his hands clasped.

"Give him a drink for God's sake," said Conrad, "it isn't everyday a man gets two brothers so far beyond the diaper stage."

While they were drinking they heard the General's car in the driveway.

"I'll go down," said Conrad.

Now Niel felt more calm. "How could you carry on with such a crazy idea?" he asked slowly. In Franz's eyes came a lost look.

"It's almost impossible to explain," he murmured. "Losing the war confuses everything . . . it's difficult to be sure what one does for oneself or one's country—or because there seems no other road to travel."

Niel pointed the stem of his pipe at him. "You are that rare thing," he said softly—"a patriot!"

A stubborn, misguided patriot! As Franz laughed he added, " . . . and men like Von Beck are the kind who murder patriots. You better watch your step, my dreamer!" There was a bond between them now.

As he talked to Von Beck in the hall Conrad was conscious of an undercurrent suspicion in the man. He thought, it's Werfel . . . he should have reported. They both halted in the drawing room doorway as Franz and Niel descended the staircase together. It was impossible to name them apart.

"Incredible!" murmured Von Beck screwing in his monocle, "incredible!" But Niel caught the vulpine cunningness in his eyes and it struck him that Von Beck wouldn't care which of them he was rid of first. "Now which is which?" he rubbed his fat hands together.

Franz laughed: "You decide . . . maybe then we'll discover a flaw."

Von Beck recoiled, purple annoyance in his face. To assist on being told would make him appear foolish, yet an uneasy feeling took hold of him that they had some plan to trick him.

From then to the end of dinner he was in torment, head aching from the nervous strain. Nor was he certain Conrad knew them apart. Niel read the smouldering anger in his little marble eyes. It wasn't safe to let him get roused, he might take a pot shot at Franz when the lights went out. That mustn't happen! So as they went in for coffee he turned to Franz—

"Franz," he said dolefully, "you've got one advantage over me—you don't smoke." They all laughed. Von Beck offered him a cigarette moving, as Niel expected he would, between them so that Franz was on his left. Conrad understood his move but Franz, pouring coffee, failed to notice so that he was startled when Von Beck murmured: "Tonight I take Dana."

Franz shrugged: "As you please."

Time was closing in; Von Beck still had Franz to the left. The musical clock struck the quarter hour making him think of Stephanie. Conrad asked him to play. Seated at the piano he realized why—it was moved close to the side doors, angled so that Von Beck sitting beyond must stand up to shoot. Next to Von Beck sat Conrad . . . Franz was on the other side of the open doors. He could make it providing Franz did not shoot him.

At the end of the Moonlight Sonata he stole a glance at the clock . . . now! He moved clear of the bench, shuffling the music, counting the seconds. As if from far away came Franz's voice:

"Play that concerto by Stephanie's father." . . . Fifty-eight, counted Niel, Franz rose from his chair. . . . Fifty-nine. . . . He ducked as the lights went—then came the shot and a cry from Franz. He felt the impact of him in the doorway, held him as he slid to the floor but moved to his right side. He felt Franz's face, moved his hand downward till it touched the warm stickiness of blood. He was swearing furiously in German as the room lighted again.
